RE: Thank you!

To whom it may concern,

I would like to fully recommend Mr. Jonathan Hanson for any custody disputes. I am 44 years old, and have enlisted the services of at least 12 different attorneys' in my lifetime. Mr. Hanson and only one other were honest people.

I filed a restraining order against my ex-wife for physically abusing our child, and then filed for full custody. Even though I had a long track record of complaints against her, it really came down to "He said, she said".

We won, and the plan was modified from less to 30% residential time on my part to I just figured out 51% in my favor. We accomplished this by doing every perfect, strictly by the book. When the opposing council tried to get us mad, shake us up, Hanson said "Ignore it". In the beginning I didn't have confidence in him, because of a seemingly emotional indifference to my plight. I have since learned that it is one of his greatest assets, he must think like the judges and family councilors in order to see things through their eyes.

We won mid-fight, and the reason is that John had everything exactly correct, there were NO MISTAKES. The opposing council was un-organized, silly, and just generally out of sorts (You do NOT WANT a poor attorney, they are out there). In the end, we just had way too much on our side, and they gave up! I've never seen anything like it in my life, my ex is the most stubborn person in the world, and I almost fell over when she crumbled.

One last thing, John may act unemotional, but he does not take advantage, like EVERY other attorney of your plight and charge you to death, for every little call, etc. Don't let his good fees betray his excellence. I think he understands that if you are afraid to call or e-mail with your concerns that they whole case will not work well.

Two thumbs up, and I HATE attorneys!
